

READ THE ENTIRE THING OR ELSE
YOU WILL 100% MISS IMPORTANT CONTEXT.

Also, this is in no way an attempt to re-enter the community. I have no interest in joining back so don't treat this document as such.

Hello
it's finn

Section 1: Introduction

So apparently that is not a name many people like to hear. Generally I would have no problem moving on from this community because quite honestly I do not care if people actually like me or not, however I can't stand the fact that the reason for this all is because of some blatant lies.

Since many of these people had originally left the community, upon my exiting, they decided to join right back into things like nothing happened. THIS is what really pisses me off. Even I took more accountability than that.

Before we start, let me introduce you to a few characters who were part of this. I will be mentioning the main people involved here but some others may be briefly mentioned later on.

hty63/heitey63/Coiluwu:

Possibly my biggest motivator for writing this document, as they recently joined back into SCLP and possibly other obby communities to supposedly make a doc on me and frame me as a groomer despite the fact that I am not a groomer at all and I have been gone for months now.

Spitfire:

I wouldn't be shocked if this name is quite familiar to many, given how much controversy has been sparked around them. Spitfire is, in my opinion, the main reason for why a lot of what is said later in this doc happened. I shouldn't need to explain more, since anyone willing to read all of this probably already knows who they are, but in short, they were removed from the community for their sexual acts towards many people, including myself.

Celyx:

Formerly known as Celio at the time, Celyx was another important figure during the beginning of this story. Celyx remains a list manager in SCLP to this day, however, their name is mentioned here for a reason which will be elaborated on later in the response.

Section 2: Seduced & Ruined

Let's get started. This takes place in around mid-late 2025, I had recently turned 15 years old. The first instance I can think of that led to this entire series of events was from Celyx.

I had been friends with them for quite some time now, and there wasn't a ton of conflict as I was still somewhat new to the community and I was overall happier with my state in life than I would be later. There's really no good way to introduce this, because out of nowhere, Celyx would DM me saying he was ERPing and how it was making him really happy. At the time, I had no knowledge about what it was, so I asked him and he briefly explained what it was to me. While nothing else immediately came out of this, it was the first thing that influenced me into getting into similar situations in the future. While no proof was provided at the time, he would later send screenshots of it or a future time he had ERPed before in an old gc between me and Dani (this was before any controversy with Dani, and they have no further involvement in the story).

The events happening between the incident I had just mentioned and now have left my memory, but it was likely mostly irrelevant and insignificant to this doc.

However, what I do know is that this eventually got me caught up with Spitfire. We had been alright friends for a while, but we were never too close. While I don't entirely remember how it happened, this eventually led to me and Spitfire having sexual relations, which isn't really surprising since it would later be revealed that Spitfire had done this with MANY other people besides just me. Ever since Celyx's introduction of ERP to me, this was something that I had interest in due to the way he had portrayed it to me.

I would do this with Spitfire a few more times until their expulsion and removal from the community, where I would heavily defend their actions since I had been so pressured into thinking that what was happening was actually okay. I had considered stopping with what I was doing with them earlier on, as I was concerned that it was negatively impacting their mental health, but I was told by them that "it was fine" and I "don't need to worry". Also yes, they did have explicit imagery of me and they also had a very bad porn addiction at the time.

Even since Spitfire was gone, I had still been so caught up that me and Celyx would continue to discuss and do sexual things. Fortunately or unfortunately, after I had sent an explicit image to Celyx, my parent had caught me which caused me to attempt to take my life, but ultimately I failed and I lost access to all online sources for quite some time. This isn't any attempt to guilt trip you into believing me, but I want it to be known that this is something that really stressed me out and it's not really as easy as just stopping once you are into it. ERP and sexual activity is just as hard to withdraw from as drugs or anything else, once I had been hooked into it, I couldn't stop.

Later, I was able to recover and things were finally looking good again. Sadly this did not last very long.

After I came back, I was able to accept that what I did was wrong. I would move on, and I hoped it wouldn't be a worry for any longer. It was alright for a while but one night I was added to a group chat with Spitfire, hty63, and a few other friends. Obviously, this did not go well. Around half an hour later, a separate group chat would be made with me, hty, and Spitfire, where he would go on to say very questionable things to me and hty63 (this includes the one screenshot that was highly spread around as well as Spitfire calling us slaves and demanding sexual pictures. Before this, I still was still not under the assumption that Spitfire had done anything wrong, but afterwards I was finally able to come to my senses about what happened and finally permanently distanced myself from Spitfire and since then I have not once talked to them.

This is pretty much the end in terms of Spitfire & Celyx and my experiences with them, however, I still have more to say about hty. While it may at first seem he was in the same situation as me, I would go on to learn more about them that would completely change the way I viewed them.

Section 3: Exiled from the Obby Community.

Looking back on how things had previously gone, things were finally starting to get better. School had ended, I had plenty of time to think back and improve on my previous actions and situations that I had gotten into and I was able to move on. As stated previously, a lot of this was due to influence from Spitfire and others, although I really should have moved on from everything much sooner. With my state of mind at the time and my overall immaturity, I struggled to detach from it for so long.

After everything that had happened, this felt like a revolution; I was finally able to move on from what had happened and I was able to accept my mistakes and move on happily knowing that I had finally reached peace. Well, that's what I hoped for at least.

Later on in June/July (I think) I was chatting in SCLP and eventually the topic of moderation in the server would be brought up, which then led to discussion about Ryoshori as they had been unbanned at some point (I was not aware of this for a long time as I was not list manager when this happened). Somehow the ENTIRE server spiralled out of control due to this due to conflicting opinions and differing thoughts on the matter. This would lead to a raid from TTO where they spammed an out of context image from the previous incident with Spitfire and hty63, hence angering the entire community towards me, leading to my decision to finally leave the community.

There's a lot to say here. First of all, I don't know where the rumor of me being a groomer came from, because whether or not you are able to understand and forgive anything that happened before is irrelevant; I am not a groomer and never have been.

Second, I would like to touch on where the image came from. I had compiled some evidence a while before in order to privately remove Spitfire from some servers, as at the time they were still partially allowed and just had their staff revoked, but they were still roaming free in most servers which I wasn't happy with. This was supposed to stay private between me and server staff; however, somebody had leaked the evidence and used it to try to make me look like a groomer and awful person. There was a little bit known about it before the evidence I shared about Spitfire, but it was very light and was handled privately; I was banned from SCLP for a few months where I was then able to appeal to PrestigeUE and I would be unbanned as it was privately agreed on that what happened was bad, but in reality I was only ever really endangering myself.

It seems ridiculous that the reason I'm gone from the community now is due to a situation that was privately handled and resolved, and I had already lived out my ban as a punishment, and yet it was still brought up again and this time with much less context and much more harmful intent towards my reputation. There are real laws out there to stop this from happening, and even though this legally doesn't apply here as it's just some internet drama, it should still be considered because common sense should tell you why this felt so absurd to me.

Lastly, let's talk about my reaction to all of this. It shouldn't come as a surprise that I am terrible at handling drama like this, and I was especially awful at it in the past. I get very stressed and make impulsive decisions, so my responses were never the greatest in the past. Now that I have matured and had uninterrupted time to think about this more, I decided to make one last response, which is the one you are reading right now. If you are looking for the best explanation of events, use this. Many of my previous responses are all over the place and while I wouldn't say they make me look worse, they really don't go in-depth into anything like this one does.

Section 4: Post SCLP interactions with hty63

The reason why I mentioned hty63 as one of the main characters starts here. From now on, nothing here has been shared in any way shape or form. I was also under the username "UniversalEllie" at the time. When I left SCLP, there were a few close friends that I decided to stay in contact with, including hty.

We had been good friends for quite a while, and we were also in a relationship for a little while. I believe it was either soon before or after leaving SCLP that I decided to break up with hty, but we still stayed as friends regardless. There were a variety of reasons I no longer wanted to be in a relationship with him, but it's important to note that this was entirely my decision; hty in no way wanted to break up and this would go on to become a huge problem.

Something I've learned since then is if someone in a relationship wants to break up but the other person doesn't want to, then it's probably not a good idea to stay friends. Hty had always said that I was perfect compared to their past relationships with Spitfire and a couple other people. It was really hard to stay friends with them after the breakup since they would constantly nag me wanting an explanation as to what exactly made me want to no longer be with them, and constantly I would be flooded with their thoughts where they would commonly say that they "weren't good enough for me" or saying that they were still attached even after breaking up. It was really hard to stay in a stable friendship with all of that going on.

A while later, I would be contacted by someone who I will keep anonymous as they aren't very relevant to this story, but they were formerly somewhat active in SCLP. We had already known each other to some extent, but we became very good friends quickly and he revealed to hty that he really liked me. This would only make things worse as previously after only a couple days of talking, they had turned down hty who asked them out. I eventually started talking to them a lot more often than hty, since I just felt more comfortable around them. I still tried to include hty by playing games as a group and interacting with hty one on one quite often. However, hty would continue to make degrading comments about himself and say that the other person was stealing his role.

As the comments only got worse over time, I tried my best to distance myself from hty as even if they didnt have any harmful intentions, they were getting in the way of my own choices and I was unable to come to a conclusion with him no matter how much I tried. It should be noted that I never was in a relationship with the unnamed person; I was aware that they wanted to, but due to my experience with hty I was really hesitant about it, and I'm glad I was because not long later they would go on to cut contact with me and any others as they stated "I don't want to be a faggot anymore" and refused to talk to anyone who was in any way a furry or part of the LGBTQ community.

While a lot of what I just told you may seem mostly irrelevant, it's important to understand how I felt about hty and how they felt about me. Since then, I have completely cut contact with them, and it didn't take long for them to rejoin the community and claim that I had "groomed them". The only reason I can think of that they would have done this is to get back at me for not wanting to interact with them anymore, as never did I groom them or do anything remotely close to it. I only ever tried to help and eventually due to many factors, (mainly the disagreements about our breakup) I decided to fully cut contact with them as like I said, I was uncomfortable interacting with them for any longer and I am free to make that decision.

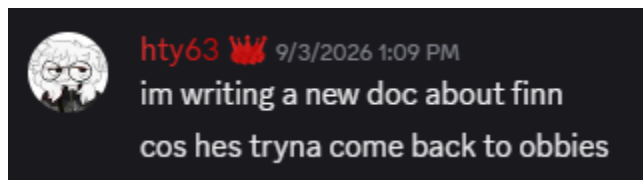

Section 5: Proof of hty's manipulative behavior and refusal to take accountability.

This is something that I've decided to remove to the public after further thoughts. While I do believe it is important to mention to some extent, for the privacy of hty I will be keeping this only available to trusted staff as I had promised to never share this, and I am only doing with staff now due to their new statements. Hty had at some point provided me with a long text file explaining most of what happened. In general, it discusses how they were groomed at the age of 13 since they had lied about their age multiple times in order to get into sexual situations and eventually they ended up switching from their old username, Coiluwu, to hty63 to distance themselves from anything relating to the past of their old self. That is all I have to say about this section.

Section 6: Responding to specific allegations

This section should be pretty quick. I'll be attaching some images of allegations made against me from members of SCLP and I will be addressing them in case it wasn't properly mentioned any time before in this response.

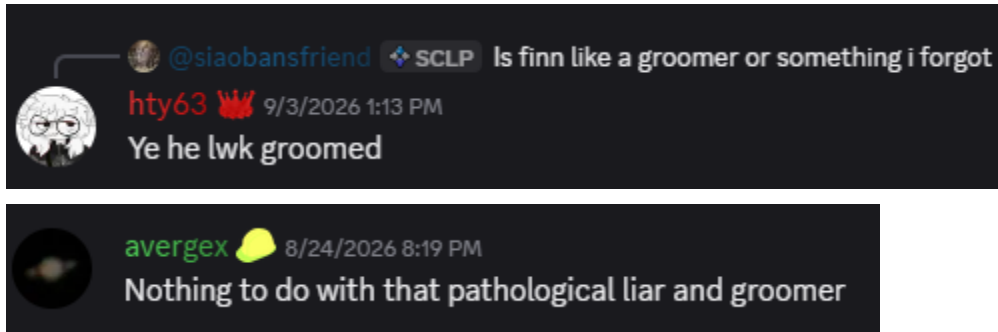

1.

I never attempted to try coming back to the obby community, nor is this document an attempt to. The only obby related servers im in are Obby Rank to submit some completions to a spreadsheet (I rarely talk there), and SCCU which I periodically join from time to time since I'm the founder of the game and owned it for a very long time, so I would like to see how it is doing.

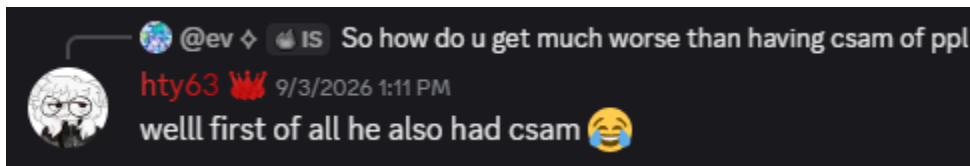

And yes putting aside the community in general I do still play obbies, I'm not sure how that's a problem.

2.

Baseless lies, if you read this far in the doc by now then you will know that I have fully addressed this by now.

3.

Another baseless lie, I do NOT have any CSAM content in any way shape or form.

I was originally going to say more here, but a majority of what people have said is the same few repeated claims without any evidence to back them up. Any further questions may be forwarded to me via DMs, send a friend request to "fynzul" and I'll address it. If you harass me or act extremely immature I will block you.

Section 7: Conclusion and final thoughts.

By now, I've addressed everything that I feel is necessary to be said. As a quick reminder, this is not an attempt to return to the community; my goal with this document is to stop the excessive lies going around and have the people who were part of this finally take accountability instead of getting away with everything while accusing me of far worse because while I do not in any way see myself as a saint it should be obvious to most that the people mentioned here really aren't any better.

Further evidence for the claims that I made will be provided to trustable staff by request if applicable.

For now, that is all I have to say. If needed, I will make a follow-up in the future. Peace out y'all.